Life was far from perfect in 1951. I read about shortages due to military actions in Korea. Cars were not allowed to use aluminum trim, as the metal was needed by the war effort. Wage freezes were ordered by the federal government. And, as interesting foreshadowing, I read articles about the French troops in Vietnam and the angry rhetoric of Ho Chi Minh.

As these ads show, people still coped with varicose veins, unwanted hair, and tabloid-style headlines. Snake oil was still popular... figuratively, not literally.

In New Haven, Ind., not long ago, newspapers reported "wild sex parties among teen-agers." In Bakersfield, Cal., 20 girls, all under 21, were arrested for posing for nude photographs... In Zanesville, O., 19 teen-agers admitted illicit sex relations in cars, alleys, and country lanes. Is immorality among small-town teen-agers really increasing? Is this problem actually acute in rural areas? For the answers, read "How Wild Are Small-Town Girls?" in the
